Chokers are a versatile piece of jewelry worn a little high on the neck. They come in various designs in beads, pearls, kundan, polki on a silver-coloured or golden metal base, making them an elegant piece. Chokers can be layered with longer necklaces or worn alone.

Indian choker jewelry is a captivating and exquisite form of adornment that has deep cultural roots in India. It is a type of necklace that sits closely around the neck, enhancing the beauty and elegance of the wearer.

The choker has been an integral part of Indian jewelry traditions for centuries and continues to be a popular choice for both traditional and contemporary occasions.

Traditionally, Indian chokers were crafted using precious metals like gold and silver. Elaborate designs adorned with intricate filigree work, precious gemstones, and enamel detailing were commonly used to create these stunning pieces.

Gheru Long Sets

Jewellery is the crucial element that brings an outfit's disparate elements together. Long necklaces have been popular for a long time and are considered a prominent fashion element. One should never miss out on this trend with all the buzz around long necklace artificial jewellery.

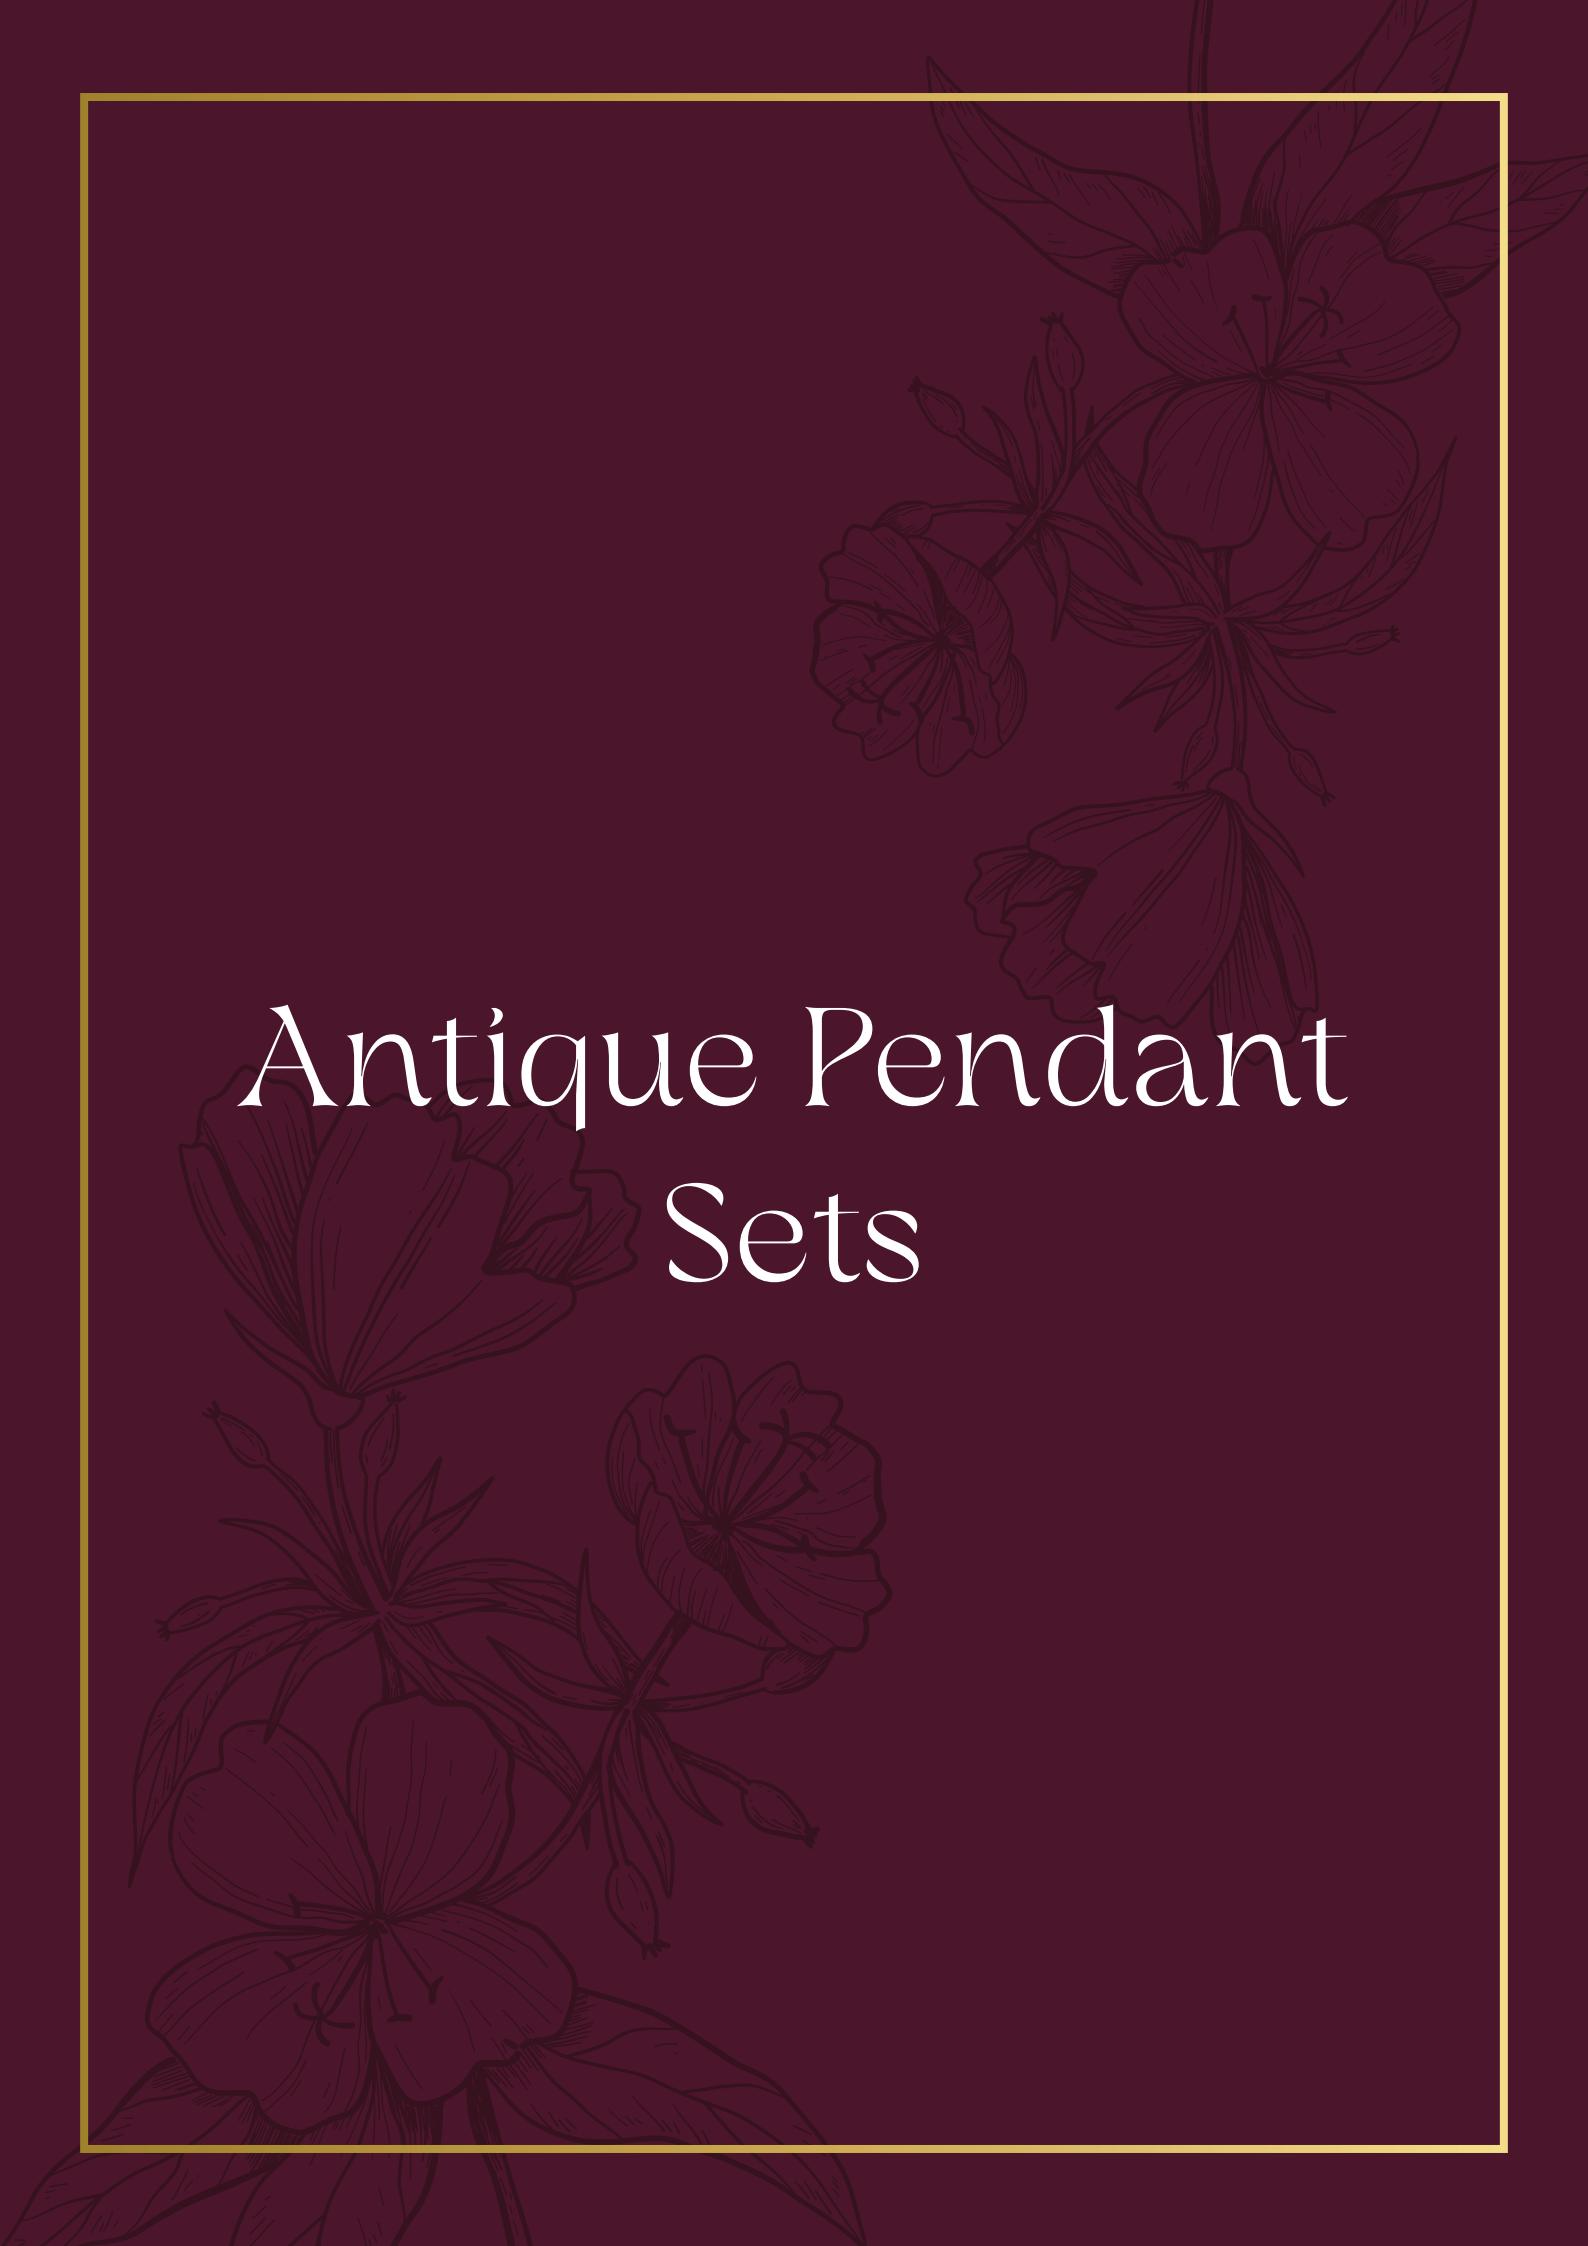

UDAI LAL BAGRECHA AND SONS

Long necklace sets are timeless accessories that can be donned for various occasions, be it a wedding or a spectacular ceremony under the lights, a dancing performance, an engagement, a cultural function, or something else.

Antique Pendant Sets

Indian pendant jewelry is a captivating and significant adornment that holds a cherished place in Indian culture. Pendants, also known as lockets, are versatile pieces of jewelry that can be worn with various types of outfits, adding a touch of elegance and personality to any ensemble. They are often made from precious metals such as gold, silver, or platinum and adorned with intricate designs, gemstones, and religious symbols.

UDAI LAL BAGRECHA AND SONS

Indian pendant jewelry showcases the rich cultural heritage and craftsmanship of the country. These exquisite pieces are meticulously crafted by skilled artisans, who employ traditional techniques passed down through generations. The designs reflect the diverse artistic traditions of India, including intricate filigree work, Kundan, Meenakari, and temple designs.

Indian pendant jewelry comes in a wide range of styles and designs, catering to different tastes and occasions. Traditional designs often feature intricate patterns and motifs inspired by nature, mythology, and religious symbolism. These pieces are ideal for weddings, festivals, and other traditional celebrations. Modern designs, on the other hand, embrace contemporary aesthetics with sleek lines, minimalist forms, and a fusion of traditional and Western influences.
